

---

Featured Challenge

Book lovers, it's that time of year again. Are you ready to break out your coziest sweater and curl up with a good book and a pumpkin spice latte? From Oct. 12 to Nov. 30, fall into reading with Mid-Columbia Libraries' first fall reading challenge!

Participants will earn badges for reading and completing reading activities. Earn chances to win great prizes. Reading must be logged in Beanstack to be eligible for prizes. Winners will be notified by Dec. 15, 2020.

Register Now

---

How to Participate

Beanstack is Mid-Columbia Libraries' source for participating in reading challenges and activities, tracking your reading, and logging and discovering books. Follow these steps to complete library programs like Summer Reading Challenge, Fall Into Reading, 100 Books to Read Before College, and more:

1. Register
2. Log your reading and activities.
3. Earn virtual badges as you read, and be eligible to win fun prizes.

How It Works:

Beanstack

You can create an account in Beanstack anytime and use it to keep track of your reading. Earn badges by logging your reading time, writing reviews to share with other readers, or completing activities and fulfilling challenge prompts. Have fun reading while earning the chance to win!

Use Beanstack on any computer or find the Beanstack Tracker app on the Apple App Store and the Google PlayStore. If you have already created an account on Beanstack online, you can use that. New readers must register.

Things to Know

You can register as an individual or a family. Reading programs are organized by age. A reader will only be able to register for the program for their age. If you wish to be contacted about prizes and drawings, please include an email address or phone number as part of your Beanstack profile.

For more information about using Beanstack and frequently asked questions, read the FAQs.